This frame building has a very low-pitch, shed roof that overhangs on the front (south) side. The angle of the roof's decent mimics the pent roof separating the 1st and 2nd stories. Walls are sheathed in vinyl siding and the 1/1 windows are modern replacements. The recessed commercial front was reconfigured in the mid-20th century. Despite significant alterations, this building helps maintain the traditional scale and rhythm of the street.

This altered, 2-story, 2-bay, frame building has a very low-pitch, shed roof that overhangs on the front (south) side. The angle of the roof's decent mimics the pent roof separating the 1st and 2nd stories. Walls are sheathed in vinyl siding and the 1/1 windows are modern replacements. The recessed commercial front was reconfigured in the mid-20th century. Despite significant alterations, this building helps maintain the traditional scale and rhythm of the street and retains enough integrity to be considered a contributing resource within the Historic District.
