| 2-story vernacular residence of wood construction, with a 3-bay first story and 2-bay second story, with a centered entrance shielded by a pedimented hood. The tall and narrow characteristics of this building suggest that it may have begun as an early log house. 2-story ell at the rear along with what appears to be an enclosed side porch. Fenestration is flat-topped, with replacement 4/4 sash. |                                                                                |
