Front Bays

2-story vernacular cottage of wood construction with a hipped roof and hipped-roof front porch extending across the façade, resting on concrete block piers with non-historic lattice porch skirting. Porch retains its original turned supports and sawn brackets, but is enclosed within a non-historic wood balustrade. Fenestration is flat-topped, with replacement sash. At least two additions appear at the rear of the building.

Statement of Significance:

This house is architecturally undistinguished, has been altered, and does not appear to meet National Register Criteria for Evaluation; further, this village possesses no potential for historic district designation because of the widespread modifications to virtually every property.
