TIME PERIOD

c. 1790 and c. 1900

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The house was built for Richard Sloan and his wife about 1790. They soon developed a weaving industry centered around their lands and continued the family trade until 1854. Three Parker brothers purchased the house and land then, and it has continued as a farm since. The house was ransacked by Federal troops during the Civil War. It served as a stage stop on the Northwestern Turnpike from mid-19th century until the railroad came to the area
